Important Notes

- Ride restrictions can be very strict, so measure your child bare foot to
- be sure they will get on the rides (and avoid disappointment) when they arrive.
- Ask staff for a ride wristband. After your child is measured at their first ride, staff members can give them a wristband confirming their height, saving you the stress of measuring at each ride.
- Book your park tickets in advance: These can be booked 60 days before you visit, and they sell out fast!

We ALWAYS book our Universal Studios Japan tickets with Klook, and I recommend you do the same!
